ON THE WING.

The Interior Journal's Business Manager Flies to the Rocky Mountains.

In Order to Escape the Army of People who Must Have the Paper.

INTERESTING NOTES ALONG THE WAY

ON ROUTE, Aug. 21.—Worn out from the fatigue of recording new subscribers, squaring accounts, and other such uninteresting business, I have sought to isolate myself awhile from the man who insists on having a half dozen or more copies of the paper or swears by all that is Holy he must pay his bill two or more times, and here I am bound for the Rocky Mountains to escape his lion-like clutches. I am now over the Mississippi and wending my way west as rapidly as the Wabash Railroad can carry me, but still there is a slight fear that I may be overtaken and forced by main strength to add another name or so to the large majority who not only take, but read the dear old I. J.

In company with Mr. A. M. Pence, I left Stanford Wednesday for Louisville, but hardly had we gotten out of the town limits when the Lebanon fair was spoken of, and it was our subject till we got to that place. Fond of the trotting horse and knowing there was a good board out, we alighted and in a few minutes later were watching the speedy equines work for both the liberal purses offered and supremacy. Mr. Pence was on his way to Illinois, where his fine horse, Pence, was booked to trot Friday, and was in high spirits over the fast work he has already done. He is thoroughly of the opinion that he has the finest horse in the country, and is positive that with another year's practice the great Bonnie Wilmore will be made to give up the pennant of that section by his (Pence's) speedy work.

Reverting to the Lebanon fair. It can be truly said that Marion has done herself proud this year. Her track is A No. 1, and the grand stand, which is new, can not be excelled in that section. The efficient secretary, Mr. T. H. Cleveland, Jr., is the right man in the right place, and I wonder not at the success of the association with him at the helm.

The trip over the Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis from Louisville to St. Louis was made without an incident worthy of mention. In the first place the road for the first 200 miles out of Louisville runs through the poorest portion of Indiana, and there is not a town of over 1,000 inhabitants after leaving New Albany. Secondly the travel was very light and altogether of the masculine gender. The road is a good one, however, and the train was as fine a "vestibled limited" as I ever saw. It is the shortest route by 56 miles and is consequently the quickest. Unfortunately it was hardly "quick" enough for me and I was compelled to lay over in St. L. till the A. M. train, by a failure to connect.

St. Louis hasn't moved since I was here some 6 or 8 years ago, but has done her share of improving. Hardly as metropolitan in air as Windy Chicago is, she holds up her end of the log fairly well and is contented with the thought that she will do bigger as she grows larger. I shall not attempt this issue to tell of any of the sights here, but will do so after a few days' stay on my return from the West. However, I do know that it is the poorest lighted city I ever saw and it was almost necessary to secure a lantern to find even the great Southern Hotel. Stanford discounts the "big city" in that line and doesn't brag over her street lamps either.

Understand me, I have not hunted them at all and really have seen no necessity for them, but I never saw as few policemen as there are in St. Louis. From 7:30 p. m. till 9 a. m. I only saw one lonely "cop" and he was very little larger than our own John Newland. Can it be that the place is so thoroughly moral that policemen are not needed? Nay, verily not.

The Union depot at St. Louis is a busy place, indeed. Hundreds of trains arrive and depart daily and there is always a jam in the waiting rooms, as well as on the outside. Men of every clime and tongue can be seen there and a better place to study nature would be hard to find. Of course in the jostling of the crowd, one against the other, the important personage known as the "crying babe" gets in his work and "he who cries, hold, enough," is on the popular side, and no thoughts of damning him are entertained.

St. Louis' street car lines are probably unequalled, save by New York where the elevated railway acts as an assistant to that mode of conveying passengers. Cable, electric and horse car tracks make a network of the city and those who walk, do so of their own accord and not from necessity. A peculiarity about the cars there is they hardly ever stop, but merely slacken up for passengers to get on and off and it takes a person with some experience to aboard them.

The Wabash Railway, unlike the one spoken of above, runs through a fine country—probably the best farming country in Missouri. The soil is very dark and I was informed it was significant of its fertility. Corn is looking fine and I don't think I "stretch the blanket" when I say that at least one-third of the cultivated land is growing that grain. Seemingly very little wheat is threshed, but from the number of shocks along the route, I judge there was an unusually large crop.

From the car window since leaving Louisville I have counted four fairs in full blast, and in Illinois there were alliance meetings visible. Senator Vest was speaking in the interest of a Confederate Home at Higginsville, Mo. As I passed through Moberly, in that State, and at a cross roads, near Lexington, same State, a tall Cicero was seen entertaining a large assemblage.

"Touched by a loving heart, awakened by kindness." Those words were indeed applicable to a scene I witnessed while on the train between Louisville and St. Louis. A handsome, well-dressed young man got on at a station not far out of Louisville and it was very evident that he had been tarrying too long at the bowl. He was soon fast asleep, and later on fell from his seat and sustained an ugly cut on the head. A motherly looking old lady was the first one to his assistance and for an hour she bathed the wound with that tenderness that only a woman can. It was not long till the young man was duly sober and this kindly old lady, who is beyond doubt an angel on earth, gave him a loving talk, which soon produced a copious flow of tears. The young man was seemingly converted and his promises to the good old lady, and her kind acts toward the wayward youth, was a sermon to the occupants of the car that time can never efface nor circumstances cause to forget.

I go to Denver to-morrow and from there to Manitou, Pike's Peak and other points of interest among the Rocky Mountains, and in Friday's issue I shall endeavor to tell your readers what I saw.

CRAB ORCHARD.

—One thousand yards of Standard prints at 5 cents a yard. W. E. Perkins.

—Prof. J. W. Smith's school at the College building opened Monday with 35 pupils.

—The L. & N. has established a permanent night office here, with Mr. H. L. Tharp, of Brohead, as operator.

—A rattlesnake measuring 9 feet in length, and bearing about with his venomous serpentship 20 rattles and a button, was killed near town Friday by Mr. E. D. Smith.

—Col. H. H. Houston is one of the notable now registered at C. O. Springs. It is not the strength restoring waters, however, that he's after—no, it is something richer, rarer, racier, more exquisite still, which Tom Moore defines as "a charm beyond all that the minstrel has told." Need we say that it is love, and that the colonel has got it bad.

—Rev. Amos Stout, of Lancaster, who has for the past year been preaching for the Baptist church at this place, has been engaged to fill the same pulpit for another twelve months. He is an able, earnest and eloquent speaker, a pious and godly man, and thoroughly conversant with the Scriptures. His sermons, if we are any judge, are like apples of gold in pictures of silver; and we hope both saint and sinner will make it a point to hear him at each of his services.

—The social party given by Mr. and Mrs. Will Curtis, at their cozy country home, Tuesday evening, in honor of Mrs. Dr. Cotterell, of Knoxville, and Misses Lizzie Debaun, Annie Higgins and Mary Prather, was quite a pleasant affair. Several couples from town went out; and these, with the neighboring beaux and belles, made up a merry coterie of 30 or more. Games, conversation, tete-a-tetes and a spread of dainties rounded up the evening's enjoyment, for which each and all, on taking leave, were loud in praising their entertaining host and hostess.

—That multitudinously-gifted being, the Hon. Fontaine Fox Bobbitt, who, in his varied and erratic career here below, has been a lamentable failure at office-seeking, speech-making, history-writing, widow-courting and Sunday School superintending, has at last discovered the true bent of his genius, and is out now in the role of toast-master. Hear him ye gods and ye creeping mortals as the Louisville Times of the 20th quotes him: "Upon being presented with a cup of cold water the other day at Crab Orchard, the Hon. F. F. Bobbitt delivered himself of this rhymic toast:

"Here's to Crab Orchard and her healing waters,
Her brave sons and beautiful daughters,
Her Dave Edmonstons and Dan Slaughters."

This is capital; and if the Honored Font doesn't next fall to writing fables, like Esop, we have some hopes for him yet.

—Another striking proof the lightning-like rapidity with which news at the present day flies over the excitable globe is shown in the fact that only 15 hours after the tragedy here this week, we received four telegrams from the great metropolitan dailies, including one from the New York Herald, asking for particulars of the affair. Verily this is a hustling age.

—Mrs. Dr. J. G. Carpenter spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. J. S. Fish. Miss Lottie Dillon has returned from a pleasant three-weeks' stay with Miss Ora Wilmore, of Nicholasville. Mrs. Rev. M. C. Morgan, of Pineville, is here visiting her mother, Mrs. Margaret Gormley. Mrs. J. A. Newland, Misses Beau-regard and Lula Stuart and Master Carpenter took in the Lebanon Fair Friday. Mr. Fritz Creiger, who took his brick kiln to Mt. Vernon recently, moved his family there this week.

—The remains of the late Judge Egbert, whose bloody and untimely taking-off was graphically told in your last issue, were interred at the Old Cemetery, Friday, after a few brief consolatory words by the Rev. W. T. B. White. A large concourse, numbering perhaps every man, woman and child in this vicinity, followed the corpse to its last resting place. While he had faults—and who of us has not?—Judge Egbert was one of the best, noblest, most highly-esteemed citizens that Crab Orchard has ever boasted. He was as typically Southern as was his illustrious chieftain, Gen. John H. Morgan, under whom he served during the momentous period between '61 and '65. Aristocratic, yet courteous and sociable; generous and impulsive, yet not familiar; brave and heroic, yet kind and gentle, he made friends among all classes, who deeply lament his fate. The sympathy of the community to an extent that has never been shown here before, is felt for the wife and son in this their sorrowful hour.

—Dr. R. G. Redd, of Montana, is here on a visit to his father. Miss Maggie Tucker, of Maywood, spent several days of this week with her friend, Miss Virgie White. Mr. H. B. Farris, of Danville, who was in town Thursday, was accompanied home by Miss Alice Moore, who will spend several weeks in the capital of Boyle. Miss Annie McClure left Wednesday for Pittsburg, where she will be the guest of Mrs. J. W. Bastin.

While there she will take in the London Fair. A quartette of Lancaster's gay gallants, composed of Messrs. Henry Anderson, Randolph Harris, William Bettus and John Anderson (My Joe John,) were here Sunday enjoying the smiles of our pretty girls. Miss Addie Heron is visiting her grand-mother at Bee Lick. Mr. George Woodring, the popular night clerk at Rowland, was here Sunday to see his sweetheart, who, when it comes to handsomeness, is a Hardin to match. Mrs. J. K. Seamon, of Louisville, is the guest of her cousins, the Misses Hardin.

Mr. J. E. Lynn, the big stock-buyer of Maywood, was here Thursday buying mules. J. H. Collier is back from a business trip to Louisville.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Rentz & Co.'s circus will exhibit in Lancaster Wednesday, and a large crowd will be in town.

—To-day, Monday, is county court day, with only a fair sized crowd in town and business comparatively dull.

—The Gaither Light Infantry" will leave for Frankfort this Tuesday, morning to attend their annual encampment. They will be in camp 10 days, and also participate in the inaugural ceremonies. They will be joined at Danville by 20 more members of the company, who are located there. The company is in command of Capt. Letcher Owsley.

—Mrs. W. G. Dunlap, of Camp Nelson, is visiting Lancaster (friends). Will Eason, of Birmingham, is visiting his parents. R. E. McRoberts has returned from a business trip to Louisville. Judge Morrow spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in Somerset. Rev. J. R. Terrey has returned from the mountains and filled his pulpit at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Rev. Clay, of Salt Lake City delivered a lecture at the Christian church, Sunday night, on the subject of "Mormonism."

—After arguments by Cols. Hill and Bradley for the defense, and Hon. Jno. S. Rhea and Capt. Herndon for the Commonwealth, the jury in the Gentry case brought in a verdict of not guilty. The case of the Commonwealth against Camor Roberts, for the murder of Deputy Jailor Parks, of Madison, is set for Wednesday, and the general impression is that the trial will be gone into. Hon. R. C. Warren has been retained for the defense. Court adjourned from Friday till Tuesday morning. The grand jury has so far returned very few indictments.

—Gov. Knott has decided to locate in Frankfort to practice law.

—Miss Josie Bent, a young white woman, employed in a millinery store at Bardstown, shot and mortally wounded the negro porter of an adjoining store. She claims that he has followed her several evenings as she returned from the store to her home and that Friday night he insulted and threatened her.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Miss Mattie, daughter of Col. Jas. A. Fisher, of Boyle, will wed Mr. J. L. Gashwiler, of Renick, Mo., at Danville Wednesday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Osborne, of Knoxville, Tenn., are soon to celebrate the 72nd anniversary of their marriage. They are respectively 101 and 92 years of age and have 290 descendants.

—Friends here have received invitations to the marriage of Prof. A. S. Paxton, late principal of the Stanford Female College, to Miss Mary C. Tapscott, of Staunton, Va., who was a member of the faculty. It is to occur Sep. 2, after which they will make their home in Florence, Ala. Everybody predicted that this would be a match and the surprise is that it has not been consummated before. Both have many friends here who send congratulations and best wishes.

To the Members of the Stanford and Danville Presbyterian Churches.

"Thy kingdom come," has been the prayer ascending for 1800 years from infant and adult lips, and yet there are over 1,300,000,000 of our fellow men unevangelized. Nearly 400,000,000 of these are in China. Every tick of the watch strikes the death note of a responsible Chinaman. A Christian dies, then 10,000 heathen pass to meet Him that said all idolaters have their part in the lake that burns with fire unquenchable (Rev. 21:8.) ere another Christian passes to glory from China. One billion of heathen have never heard the name of Him who gave His life for the world. Every year 30,000,000 heathen go into eternity unprepared. In the U. S. there is one preacher for every 700 of the population, in China one to every 690,000. If the U. S. and Great Britain were supplied with ministers in the same proportion as the heathen world the one would have but 200 and the other 100.

We expend $98 on our home work to $2 on the gross darkness of the entire heathen world. Church members give about 35 cents a year to save a billion heathen. A tithe of our luxuries would yield $400,000,000 and a twentieth of our comforts would yield $200,000,000 more. So that without touching our necessities we could evangelize the world in 10 years. The cry from all over the awakening church is "let us preach the gospel to every creature in the next 10 years." We can do it. Six thousand young men and women have volunteered within the last few years in our schools to go as missionaries. Twenty-seven per cent. of these are Presbyterians. The Lord is working marvelously. In the Apostolic century it is estimated 500,000 heathen and Jews were converted. In this century a church now numbering 1,000,000 has been gathered. The Lord left his last marching orders to the church, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Nearly 1900 years have rolled by and still this year finds a billion that have not heard it. Ere this century close we can preach the gospel for a witness to every nation. Till then the Lord can not return to reign. When this is done He says: "Then cometh the end." Let us either cease to pray "Thy kingdom come," or be up and preach the gospel so it can come. Let us either cease to sing the doxology, "Praise Him all creatures here below," else send them the gospel so they can do it. The kid glove bill of the U. S. would pay all our contributions to save a billion lost heathen. Our tobacco bill would twice over pay all we give in the U. S. for all God's work in the world; and yet we say we are Christians; and

"Were the whole realm of nature mine,
It were a present far too small;
Love so amazing, so divine,
Demands my life, my soul, my all."

Now the desire of the friends in Stanford and Danville churches is to support in China a missionary of our own. We think it in our power. We feel it our duty. We think it will arouse more interest in the Master's work to have a man sent out by ourselves, whom we know, from whom we can hear, for whom we can pray. We have selected Rev. R. A. Haden, under appointment to sail Sep. 26, 1891, for China. Our plan is simple, sensible, and not burdensome. We propose to take shares in this the Lord's work. Each share is $11. This to be paid annually, or semi-annually, or better still, quarterly—unless it is paid in full and in advance. A secretary and possibly an assistant secretary in each church will attend to the work of the society. A copy of the "Missionary Magazine" will be sent to each person, or class, or family, or society, that is a shareholder in this the Lord's work. We wish to raise at least 60 shares in the two churches to cover his salary of $600 and traveling expenses in his work in the field, &c. "There is that scattereth and yet it increaseth, there is that withholdeth more than is meet yet it tendeth to poverty." "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." "Cast thy bread upon the waters for thou shalt find it after many days."

W. P. WALTON.

STANFORD, KY., - AUGUST 25, 1891

The editor of the Voice, the leading prohibition paper in the United States, having scored ex-Senator Ingalls for certain alleged discrepancies between the statements in his speech at Prohibition Park, Aug. 1, and his article in the Forum three years ago, he publishes a reply. In the speech he showed what an utter failure prohibition had proven in Kansas, while in the Forum he had pronounced the law and its workings a complete success. The senator says that the article was based on information furnished by reliable persons at the time, but that since an extraordinary change had occurred. There is no town of importance in Kansas now, he asserts, where whisky and beer are not sold as a beverage, that in the principal cities the dram shop traffic is practically licensed by the monthly imposition of fines and that the brewery, which in a test case the supreme court of the United States held the State had power to suppress and destroy, has been and is now in constant, uninterrupted, and profitable operation. These observations, continues the senator, are not prompted by hostility to prohibition nor by preference for any other plan of suppressing the enormous evils inflicted upon society by the abuse of intoxicating drinks. Prohibition may be the best method of dealing with the appalling problem, but the friends of temperance have nothing to gain by intolerance, hypocrisy, and misrepresentation, and nothing to lose by fearless, candid, and truthful discussion.

LAST month the whole region round about Hanover, N. H., was shocked by the murder of a beautiful young girl, whose person showed that she had also been the victim of her murderer's hellish lust. Frank Almy, the hired man of Christine Warden's father, who was a farmer, was suspected and his disappearance strengthened the belief that he was the perpetrator of the horrible crimes. The whole country joined in the search, but it was not until Thursday last that he was found. He had barricaded himself in one of Mr. Warden's out-houses and when a posse attempted to storm it he fired upon the men, wounding seriously one or more. He continued to fire until his ammunition was exhausted, and then refused to surrender till he had been shot three times. It was all the officers could do to prevent the outraged populace from dealing summary justice to the fiend. He is now in jail and will no doubt be made to atone as much as his worthless life can for his heinous crimes, which cry aloud for the tortures inflicted by the Spanish Inquisition.

In an interview published in the Bowling Green Times, Dr. John D. Woods, one of nature's highest noblemen, admits that he feels flattered at the many kind references to him for speaker of the House and that he would esteem it an honor worthy of the highest ambition to attain the position, if it involved no suspicion of bargain or promise; otherwise he would not have it. Thoroughly honest and scrupulously impartial, well versed in parliamentary law and gifted with a full store of common sense, which a fine education and extensive reading has broadened and brightened, Dr. Woods would make a model presiding officer for our law-makers and reflect credit alike on them and himself. The INTERIOR JOURNAL, which loves and honors him, hopes to be able before many months to address its friend and brother as Speaker Woods, of the lower House of Representatives.

SENATOR CARLISLE, in an interview, says it would be suicidal for the democracy to advance the question of free coinage of silver to an equal importance with the tariff issue. The party is not united on the former while on tariff reform it is practically a unit and can make a confident and aggressive fight. Even with free coinage the people will not be benefited if the drain produced by high prices is continued because their money will be wrung from them through custom-house exactions. The senator was not prepared to say that Cleveland would be renominated, but he is sure no other man has the hold on the people that he has. The views of Senator Carlisle are always regarded with high consideration. He is a statesman and a patriot, above attempting to carry a point simply to gratify a petty spite and magnify his own importance.

BROWN HULSEY amused himself at Crofton by striking matches on a pistol cartridge. The cartridge stood it as long as possible, then got mad and exploded, killing Hulsey instantly. All the fools are not dead, but if they keep on in this way their numbers will be materially reduced.

JERRY SIMPSON, the sockless Kansas statesman, can't see why Jay Gould should charge him $10 to haul him from Chicago to New York and only demand $3 for a hog. We can't see either, except that the Kansas hog persists in riding in the cars with people.

The Kentucky Post ought to kill its artist or give him a better axe.

Those tender-hearted idiots, called sentimentalists through courtesy, are holding up their hands in holy horror again and decrying against capital punishment, because the head of murderer Conway was jerked off at Liverpool and blood spurted right and left. What difference does it make if it did? If the feelings of the man is worth considering it was a much less painful death than by the slower one of strangulation, though the murderer richly deserved the more torturous death. He had cut a boy's throat simply to gratify a desire to see how he would die. No sentiment or other foolishness should be wasted on him. Everybody should rejoice that such a monster was killed no matter if his head was jerked off to do it.

THE Covington Commonwealth man, having exhausted without avail every argument he could think of against the new constitution, has given up the fruitless task of trying to turn the tide of public sentiment, and now fills his editorial page with learned disquisitions on base-ball and similar abstruse questions. Age can not wither nor custom stale the infinite variety of our Bro. Blakely.

JAMES FUSON was given 15 years at Pineville for rape. He had previously served 10 years for the same offense in Tennessee. His is certainly a case which properly belongs to the jurisdiction of Judge Lynch.

HON. GREEN R. KELLER, of the Carlisle Mercury, who was clerk of the last House, is a candidate for re-election with a good chance of being chosen. He is a good man and a good clerk and we hope to see him honored.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Rev. F. D. Hale is conducting a revival at Somerset.

—Rev. W. L. Williams closed a week's meeting at Goshen with 23 additions to the church, 19 by confession and baptism. This too when it was thought that the field had been fully harvested.

—Rev. Geo. Hunt and Messrs. E. P. Woods, M. F. Elkin and J. H. McAlister will represent the Stanford Baptist church in the Bates Creek Association, which convenes at Waco this morning.

—At the meeting of the Kentucky Conference of the M. E. Church, South, on Sep. 2, at Harrodsburg, Rev. T. J. Godbey will be entertained at Dr. J. M. Dalton's, and S. S. Myers at Dr. Plummer's.

—In common with many others we regret to hear that Rev. T. J. Godbey will likely not be returned to the church here by the approaching conference. He is an excellent man, a fine pastor and has done a good work here.

—Rev. R. A. Haden, who will sail for China, Sep. 26, as a missionary from the Stanford and Danville Presbyterian churches, preached a good sermon here Sunday morning. On our first page will be found an article from Rev. Ben Helm giving the proposed plan for his support.

—Elder B. F. Clay, formerly State evangelist of Kentucky, but now missionary at Salt Lake City, Utah, will deliver a lecture on "Mormonism as it seems in Utah" at the Christian church here Thursday evening at 7:30. The public is respectfully and cordially invited to attend.

—"We thank God," said Rev. John Bell Gibson, in pronouncing the benediction after a sermon from a brother of another church who had spoken of the conflicting translations, "We thank God that Thou has made the Scriptures so plain that a way faring man though a 'simpleton' may not err therein," and the other preacher is at a loss to know if he meant him.

—A large crowd heard Rev. Ben Helm discourse for 1½ hours on "Scriptural Baptism from a Bible Standpoint," at his church Sunday night, and all admitted whether they agreed with him or not that he advanced some absolutely indisputable arguments that the Pedo-Baptists are right in their mode of baptism. The mode, however, is not so important as that the heart of the receiver is right. The speaker said that in a ministry of 23 years this was the first sermon he had devoted exclusively to the subject and it may be as many more years before he does so again. His commission is to preach Christ and to make Christians, not Presbyterians or other Pedo-Baptists.

—The John Lucas farm of 301 acres, five miles from Paris, was bought by Joseph Lair at $65.20.

—The Mt. Sterling Sentinel reports sales of 50 fat cattle at 5½ and 225 mountain cattle at 2½ to 3½.

—M. D. Elmore is the boss cantaloup raiser. The largest so far is 19 pounds, but he expects to beat that.

—Rees Bros., of Shelby, sold in Louisville 63 fat Berkshire hogs, 10 months old and weighing 230 pounds, at 5½.

—The Bourbon Fair begins Sept. 1 and lasts five days. Secretary R. K. McCarty has our thanks for kind invitation to attend.

—Dr. Clifton Fowler is delivering 500 bushels of wheat to the Roller Mills, which he sold sometime ago at 75 cents. The price now offered is 80 cents.

—John Hughes sold to Tene Hunn and J. Walker Givens 25 Texan mares at $25 and 21 weanling colts from them to James Leavelle at $10.—Advocate.

—The richest stake ever run for in America, the Futurity, will be decided at Sheephead Bay next Saturday. It is calculated that it will be worth $75,325.

—Tunis, of Boyle, bought of Chris. Lyon, of this county, a Metropolitan mare, dam by Garrard Chief, with a colt by Gambetta Wilkes, for $1,050.

—Marion C., owned by J. M. Young, of Lexington, won the Garfield Stakes from the great Kingston, at Chicago, Saturday, while 30,000 people cheered her lustily. Time 1:55.

—The First National Bank sold 1,000 bushels of wheat off its farm on Middle creek, Tuesday, at $1. Stiles McDougal sold 33 head of extra fine cattle, averaging 1,600 pounds, to W. H. Jeffries, at 5 cents.—Elizabethtown News.

—The "box" supper and festival, given under the auspices of the Maywood Sabbath school Saturday night, was largely attended and proved a most pleasant and entertaining affair. The programme consisted of music, songs, recitations, dialogues and tableaux, in all of which the participants acquitted themselves splendidly. Among those who took part in the entertainment were Misses Maggie Bunn, Sallie Boon, Katie Napier, Mary Martin, Marcie Boon, Cora Baugh, Sophie Douglas, Lizzie Kirkpatrick, Maud Douglas, Stella Stephenson, Alice Sowder and Sabra Hays, Messrs. Fred Mahaffey and W. G. Napier. "The Price of a Drink," by Miss Marcie Boon, "Roses on the Soldier," by Miss Mary Martin, and "Carlew Must Not Ring To-night," by Miss Stella Stephenson and Mr. W. G. Napier, were exquisite and deserve especial mention. The music for the occasion was furnished by the Maywood orchestra, headed by that skillful musician, Mr. William Ennis, and was no small feature of the programme. The affair netted about $10, which will go toward buying literature for the Sunday School.

—Our Crab Orchard correspondent fails to note the death of Mrs. Will Severance, which occurred last Wednesday, after a protracted illness with a complication of disease, aged 43. Besides a husband she leaves six children. Her maiden name was Mary E. Lindsay and she was an excellent christian woman.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—The Institute is over and the crowd of apparently happy school-teachers are missed on our streets.

—Mrs. May Province fell out of and was run over Saturday by a one-horse wagon she was driving. She was supposed to be seriously hurt at the time, but is getting along very well now.

—Prof. Charley Brock left for Williamsburg Sunday to make his future home, and carried with him the hearty wishes of the majority of our citizens for his future happiness and prosperity.

—Watermelons and canteloupes are plentiful and cheap. Sweet potatoes are just coming in now at $1 a bushel and Irish potatoes are 60c. There are so many apples this year that they sell as low as 15 cents.

—John Tipton, a well-known citizen of this county, died suddenly at his home Friday evening with cholera morbus. He leaves several children and a widow, his second wife, whose only child was two days old.

—There was a shooting scrape at Pittsburg Saturday night between Deputy-Town-Marshal George Gragg and Bill Miller, of that place, in which Miller was slightly wounded in three places. Particulars could not be obtained.

—Walton Craft is down with typhoid fever, but the attack seems to be very light. His grandmother, Mrs. Lizzie Pearl, is also confined to her bed with something similar, but if it is the same disease the case has not fully developed yet.

—If the many people who will attend the fair want to see a sight, they should go around by our common school house and look at the out house provided for the 200 children (male and female) who will attend the school. There is not a town outside of London on a railroad but what does better.

—Next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday (if it don't rain too bad) there will be more people here than come for any other attraction, not excepting even a circus. The Laurel County Fair always brings them in carriages, spring wagons, road wagons, horse-back and on foot and this will not be an exception. The premiums on everything have been increased, the new race track is a daisy and the accommodations for the sight-seers ample for the thousands who will attend, and they will surely be here. Ed had better come up.

This from the Barbourville News seems to indicate that the case is getting serious: J. S. Owsley, Jr., of Stanford, came up Monday to see one of the prettiest young ladies in our city.

The Lexington Press heartily welcomes Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bruce to Lexington, and adds that Mrs. Bruce is a very handsome woman, who will prove a valuable addition to society.

Mr. C. H. PAINE, a Boston banker, is at the Myers. One of our loveliest young ladies is the magnet which has drawn him so far from the land of baked beans, and the I. J. admires his excellent taste.

ALL notes and accounts not paid by Sept. 1 will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection. J. F. Holdam, Crab Orchard.

It was reported here yesterday that Dutch Gooch, who was shot by Singleton, had died of his wounds, but it lacked confirmation.

A COUPLE of freight cars jumped the track on Crooked Hill Saturday morning and delayed all trains from two to six hours. Nobody hurt.

I AM receiving my fall goods daily and cordially invite the public to call in and inspect the finest line ever brought to Stanford. H. C. Rupley.

STRAWBERRIES.—Mr. E. B. Caldwell has had strawberries continuously since last spring. He left a quart of them with us yesterday as fine as we ever saw. They are the Lancaster and Big Bob varieties.

THE crowd at Crab Orchard continues at high water mark and there is such a demand that the season shall be prolonged that Clerk Edmiston tells us the management has decided to keep the hotel open till Sept. 15.

WHILE Leslie Carter and wife were absent from their home, at Rice's Bend, on Dix River, a robber entered the house and when he was observed by a white boy living there, he fired at him twice wounding the lad seriously.

THE K. C. will run another Niagara Falls excursion next Thursday, 27th.

Fare from Rowland and Lancaster $8.80 for the round-trip, with $1 extra to Toronto and $5 to Thousand Island. It is a grand trip and can be made at very small cost.

JOHN C. McWHORTER, of Jackson county, is another entry in the race for doorkeeper of the next House. Mr. W. H. Johnson, than whom there was never a better democrat, vouches for his democracy, and that is proof that it is above reproach. Mr. McWhorter suffered an accident last year that rendered him a cripple for life. A burning tree fell on him and roasted his whole left side, his arm having to be amputated and his leg being rendered almost useless.

A SPECIMEN MAIL-CARRIER.—Our friend, W. C. Pittman, at Manchester has frequently written us about the tardy delivery of the INTERIOR JOURNAL there. The same was true of other matter and an inspector was sent out to investigate where the trouble was. He finds that the sub-contractor is in the habit of taking what mail he can carry without inconvenience and leaving the rest till he gets ready to take it. The contractor has been notified that hereafter he will be fined for every delay made, and the postmasters along the route have been instructed to make daily reports of arrival and departure of all mail.

ACCIDENTS, railroad men say, always come in threes, and the facts seem to bear them out in it. In addition to the other accident on this division mentioned elsewhere in this paper, the 2nd and 3d sections of No. 34, Atkins and Nappier, conductor and engineer of the one and T. P. Dudderar and Abbey, of the other, had a rear end collision about 4 A. M., Sunday, just beyond Mt. Vernon. Nine cars were reduced to splinters and much delay was occasioned. Sunday night the truck of a car in Capt. Wm. Geer's train broke not far from Hazel Patch, delaying all trains and throwing the night express here at 1 P. M. yesterday instead of 3 A. M.

A BAD CASE.—From all we could gather from witnesses and others at Crab Orchard, a much worse case will be made out to-day against Marshall Will Saunders for killing Judge A. M. Egbert than was at first supposed. In fact we were told that unless the plea of insanity was made and sustained, and no one ever thought of it before, the marshal will have a hard time getting out of a very bad scrape. That the killing was unnecessary to say the least, seems to be shown by the prisoner's own statement. As usual, however, in such cases the man who saw the dead man put his hand on his hip pocket, will be on hand to testify. There was a good deal of quiet indignation felt by the better class of citizens over the fact that Mr. Saunders was permitted to return home practically without a guard and under no bond, and Friday evening, Sheriff Menefee fearing trouble went up and brought him here, where he lies quite sick with the flux. Those who witnessed the terrible shock which the killing had on Mrs. Egbert say it was most heart-rending. Her screams could be heard half a mile, and they aroused the whole town. Poor woman! She has certainly had more than her share of sorrow. Her first husband was shot in the arm by Reuben Engleman before the war, in front of what is now the Opera House block here, from which he died a horrible death, lockjaw supervening.

The public school here, Misses Cettie Thurmond and Alice Stuart, teachers, opened yesterday with 60 pupils.

THERE will be a grand picnic, ball and banquet at Green Briar Springs, on Saturday, August 29. Programme and bill of fare will be published in Friday's paper. Everybody invited.

CHEAP rates to Frankfort on Queen & Crescent Route and Louisville Southern R. R. in Kentucky, account inauguration of governor. Tickets sold August 31 and Sep. 1, good for return until September 3.

P. W. GREEN, of the Myers House, will open a livery stable on the 1st, with new horses, new vehicles, &c. He will also employ the well-known trainer, Al. Burns, of Hustonville, and make a specialty of handling horses.

THE second regiment of State guards, which includes the Lancaster company, Letcher Owsley, captain, the Harrodsburg and Middlesboro companies, will go into camp at Frankfort to-morrow and will be in the inaugural parade.

THE grandest picnic of the season will be given at Hale's Well on Thursday, Aug. 27, to which every one is invited. Good music and dancing. Dinner and supper prepared at the hotel. R. Flora, proprietor.

DR. J. G. CARPENTER didn't like the way one of his great toes was disposed to encircle his other toes, so he had Dr. Bailey to cut the tendons Sunday and for the present he has joined Stanford's large army of cripples.

DICK GENTRY was acquitted of the murder of John Sandifer, whom he killed in July, 1890. The jury was out about two hours and at first stood three for three years, but they finally came over to the nine who were for acquittal. This was the second trial of the case.

AFTER a very hot spell of a week a cold rain began to fall Saturday and by Sunday the air was colder than it some times is at Christmas. It was still cold yesterday, and the signal service says it will remain so till to-morrow. Fires and winter clothing in August are a new thing for this section.

THE State Sunday School Convention begins at Middlesboro to-day and lasts till Thursday. A special train will pass Stanford at 12:20 P. M. to-day, on which the fare is $4 for the round-trip. Tickets sold only on train and none but accredited delegates permitted on it. On regular trains the fare is full one way and free returning.

SEVERELY BURNED.—Friday night as Engineer A. Underwood was down in the pit at Rowland trying to put a new grate in the fire box of his engine, the negro in the cab opened the blow off cock and flooded him with scalding steam. The back of his head and all down his back was terribly burned and he suffered excruciating agonies till Dr. Reid arrived and applied the proper bandages and treatment. The negro claims that he fell against the blow off cock and that opened it, but those who know say it could not be opened that way. The fact probably is that he was fooling with it, without knowing its uses or the consequences that would follow its opening.

PAT CONWAY, who used to live in Hustonville, writes to the Courier Journal from Lucan, Ireland, denying that he stole his son from his mother and run off. He states that his wife was a Protestant, but it was agreed before their marriage that the children should be brought up in the Catholic faith. The boy was taken sick, but his wife refused to let a priest see the boy, and then he determined to leave America. The boy willingly went with him and he used no force whatever and made no attempt to conceal his plans or route. All the same it will be hard to make the average man believe anything than that Mr. Conway acted the brute in the matter.

THE young lady who swallowed a cup of cold poison Thursday afternoon with suicidal intent failed to make it, though she had a close call. When Dr. McRoberts arrived she was limp and apparently lifeless, but by heroic efforts and the usual remedies, he succeeded in getting the laudanum from her stomach. The young lady, whose name is Miss Susie McPherson, is quite pretty, 18 years old, and lives at Rowland. She loved Jim Martin, it seems, but he, cruel man, left her to weep. After a short period of laceration, she accepted the advances of Jim Carter, a youth of 19, and their wedding day was set. The old love wouldn't down, however, and Miss Susie determined to make one more effort to win back the fickle Martin. Boarding the train she started for Louisville, where he was working. She failed to see him, however, and falling into the hands of some good Samaritans she was ticketed back to her home. The object of her visit seems to have been communicated to lover No. 2, who thereupon announced his intention to relinquish his claim. This was more than Miss Susie's tender heart could withstand, and after writing a love-lorn letter to her recalcitrant lover, she proceeded to put herself outside of half an ounce of laudanum. This was her third attempt to shuffle off the mortal coil, but she still lives, and Saturday was on the street looking as unconcerned as if cupid's darts had never disturbed the even tenor of her way.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF STANFORD, KY.
Capital Stock.....$200,000
Surplus.....16,500

Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act, depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal to the stock, so that depositors of this institution are secured by a fund of $400,000. Five sworn statements of the condition of the bank are made each year to the United States government and its assets are examined at stated intervals by government agents, thus securing additional and perfect safety to depositors.

This institution, originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1855, then re-organized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1863 and again re-organized as the First National Bank of Stanford in 1880, has had practically an unintermitted existence of 32 years. It is better supplied with facilities for transacting business promptly and liberally than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, solicitors, firms and individuals respectfully solicited.

The Directory of this Bank is composed of:
T. J. Foster, of Stanford;
Forrestus Reid, Lincoln county;

A Question of Orthography.

In a recent letter Bill Nye writes: I met a thrifty traveling man with a silver-trimmed sample case. I thought I had seen him before, and so I had. He spoke to me, "Yes," he said, "you and I met in Cleveland last month." I remembered it then. I was sitting in the reading-room of the Weddell House, and this man was there. He was writing a letter. Finally he raised his head and said: "How do you spell choir—a church choir?"

I knocked the ashes from my fragrant cigar and said "c-h-o-i-r."

"Thanks," he said; "but is it not also spelled q-u-i-r-e?"

"Oh, no. You are thinking of a quire of paper," I said, as I wiped my nice new high hat with my elbow.

"Possibly, but you know, I had the idea in my blame-fool head that q-u-i-r-e was also correct for a church choir. Are you sure that q-u-i-r-e is not admissible for church choir?"

"Oh, yes, sir," I said as I wrote a few autographs for a delegation waiting in the ante-room. "I would stake my existence on it."

"Well, sir, I am probably wrong, but I am headstrong and I don't mind losing $20—for I am a Standard Oil man—just to find out, and we will leave it to Webster."

"All right," said I, wishing to buy a spring overcoat, of which I was greatly in need, "$20 goes." I did not know the grammatical construction, however, at the time.

We got a Webster, and then I saw what I had not seen before—that "quire" was correct. I wish that I could sell the knowledge I have got for what cost it has me. I would take much needed rest in Europe for 85 years and live well all the time.

Well, this man is now in the business he told me. He has quit the road and gone into the orthography business, which nets him $50 per day, with the aid of a young man who helps him start the argument. At least it did not net him $50 per day. Possibly after this ad. is published he may not do so well. His idea, however, was, when I saw him, to make about $50,000 in three years and then live in a large feudal limekiln on the Rhine.

"Darling," he murmured, "do you remember the night I left you six years ago, avowing that I would not look you in the face again until I counted myself worthy? To-night, my queen, I am a rich man. Tell me again that you do indeed love me."

"I do," she answered, as she lay back in his strong arms. "But tell me, dear, how you made your fortune."

"That is easily done," he replied gayly. "After I left the house that night I hastily entered a cab, but had not driven a block when the driver fell off the box in an apoplectic fit."

"And then?" she questioned anxiously.

"And then," he went on, an exultant ring in his voice, "I took his place."—Life.

The chigre may chig with all his might and the mocking-bird mock and sing, but the Kansas crops; take the cake, and corn, you bet is king. The cricket may chick and the froglet frog, and the farmer may chant his strain, for the Kansas crop is always on top—when there's plenty of rain. The chinch bug may chinch and the grasshopper hop, and the hot winds make you tire, but if any one says there are such things here, just call him a horrible liar. Oklahoma may boom and Texas howl, and Missouri shoot off her crop, but this is the place to get a home and raise a great big crop.—Marysville (Kan.) News.

Most people think they must wait many years for returns from the planting of peach or cherry pits. We have heard on good authority, that a Texas man ate peaches from a tree two years and two months after he planted the pit from which the tree grew.—Stockman.

BEHIND THE SCENES.

Stockton, Cal., is to have a $300,000 theater next winter.

European instruments are now used by Japanese orchestras and European music is taught to Japanese singers.

"The Princess of Erie," which was written by Henry Guy Carleton for Daniel Frohman, has been accepted by R. M. Field, of the Boston Museum.

Charlie Hoyt, the author of farce comedies, has become the youngest theatrical manager in New York by taking the Madison Square. He is scarcely thirty.

A young woman named Lind recently landed at the large office in New York, having come from Sweden in the steerage of a steamer. She is a niece of Jenny Lind.

The largest operatic repertoire of any one person is that of Giuseppe De Puente, the baritone. It is said that he could assume an important role in any one of sixty-one different operas on a moment's notice.

A chance for very important international complications is contained in the warning of the chief of the Chilian insurgents to the captains of American vessels at Iquique. American captains are warned not to allow their crews to go on shore, as in the present state of insurgent feeling toward the United States our sailors would be attacked and perhaps killed by mobs of Chilian rebels. A nation bent on conquest or the acquisition of territory could ask no better invitation than this to go in, get mixed up in the fight, and under pretense of indemnity for damages take possession of a good slice of the country. But the United States is not that kind of a nation.

Will you kindly state how the next Congress will stand by States? If the election is thrown into the House, how will the vote go?—The democratic candidate will be elected. The republican candidate will only get eleven votes, and six of these votes will be cast by Idaho, Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington and Wyoming. The other five will be cast by California, Colorado, Maine, Oregon and Vermont, which are the only States left to the republican party outside of those recently admitted.—N. Y. World.

The decision of the Supreme Court of Montana upon what constitutes contempt of court is sound sense and good law. The court practically decides that contempt of court is disobedience to its process or any act in the presence or immediate vicinity of a judicial tribunal which interrupts or disturbs its proceedings. The idea that a newspaper reflection upon the integrity or ability of a judge is contempt in the legal acceptation of that term is pronounced unwarranted.

"I don't think it's weak for a man to show softness of heart," said the party who was the first to drain his glass and slowest to treat. "Once coming home to supper I saw my wife with an ax in the yard trying to cut some wood. The sight was too much for me: I could not look at it. I rushed—"

"Well!" interrupted one of the others. "I rushed back to the saloon again up, till I knew she had got through with it."—Philadelphia Times.

"Buffalo" Jones, of Garden City, Kan., has taken his entire herd of buffaloes from Garden City to McCook, Neb., and they will in the future be kept on a ranch near that city. The herd consists of 83 fine animals and Jones values them at $400 a head. This is the largest herd of buffaloes in the world.—Chicago News.

—Edward Blair, for murder while attempting to rob his victim, was hung Friday morning in the Ohio penitentiary. It wasn't a very inspiring occasion, but it is said that he smiled from the time he mounted the scaffold till the black cap hid his face.

It is an old story of the Scotch Presbyterian who said: "That the devil is bad you can tell by his very name; for, if you take away the 'd', it is evil, and take away the 'd' it is ill, so that he is an ill, vile, evil devil!"
